Following his graduation, Shulman was admitted to the Ohio bar and worked in the law departments of first, the New York Central Railroad in Cleveland in 1920 and then, the Santa Fe Railroad in Albuquerque, New Mexico in 1921. In 1922 Shulman returned to Ohio to attend the Hebrew Union College in Cincinnati. He was ordained rabbi in 1927.

During this time Shulman also studied at two other colleges. From 1922-1923 he was a student at the University of Cincinnati and from 1923-1927 he studied at the University of Chicago, earning a Ph.D. degree in 1924 and an A.M. degree in 1927.

Following his ordination Shulman became rabbi of Congregation Leshem Shomayim in Wheeling, West Virginia. He remained there until 1931 when he left for Glencoe, Illinois to become rabbi of North Shore Congregation Israel. In 1947 he left Glencoe to found a new temple in the Bronx section of New York City, Riverdale Temple. He remained there as rabbi until his death in 1968.

During World War II Shulman served as a chaplain in the U.S. Navy, rising to the rank of lieutenant commander. He served on active duty at naval training stations in Bainbridge, Maryland and Newport, Rhode Island until he was assigned to the Seventh Fleet as Jewish chaplain of the Southwest Pacific.
