Administrative Information

Biographical Sketch

Julius Mark was born on December 8, 1898 (November 26 according to the Julian Calendar), in Libau, Russia (today Liepāja, Latvia), the son of merchant David Mark and Ida Tanur. He immigrated with his family to America in 1906, settled in Cincinnati, Ohio, and changed his birthday to December 25. He attended the University of Cincinnati and Hebrew Union College (HUC), and later took classes at the University of Chicago. As a rabbinical student at HUC, he served as a student rabbi in, among other places, Corpus Christi, Texas in 1918, Beth Ahabah Congregation in Muskogee, Oklahoma (1919-1920), and Anshe Chesed Congregation in Bay City, Michigan (1921-1922). Following his ordination, he also served as a temporary rabbi for Congregation B'nai Israel in Little Rock, Arkansas in the summer of 1922.

After Mark was ordained in 1922, he became rabbi of Temple Beth El in South Bend, Indiana. He also served as a part-time rabbi of Congregation Ahavath Sholom in Ligonier, Indiana, travelling there once a week to lead Friday night services. He then became rabbi of Congregation Ohabai Sholom (also known as the Vine Street Temple) in Nashville, Tennessee in 1926. He served as rabbi there for the next 22 years. He became senior rabbi of Temple Emanu-El in New York City, New York in 1948, serving as rabbi there until 1968, when he retired and became rabbi emeritus. He also served as Visiting Professor of Homiletics and Practical Theology for HUC-JIR's New York campus from 1949 to 1963.

In 1942, Mark became a chaplain with the United States Naval Reserve with the rank of Lieutenant. He attended the Chaplain School in Norfolk, Virginia from July to August of that year, and in September he was sent to USNTC in Great Lakes, Illinois. He was stationed there until April 1944, when he was sent to Pearl Harbor, Hawaii and served as assistant fleet chaplain under Admiral Chester W. Nimitz. While stationed in Pearl Harbor, he travelled to various naval installations all over the Pacific. He was promoted to Lieutenant Commander in January 1945 and was discharged in October 1945.

Mark began delivering sermons over the radio in the mid-1920s, and in both Nashville and New York he regularly delivered sermons and addresses through that medium. He had a radio program called "Religion in a Changing World" on WSM from 1936 to 1948. He travelled abroad on multiple occasions over the years and would talk about his travels in newspaper articles, sermons, and speeches. His sermons covered a wide range of topics, from major world events to books he recently read. Some of his sermons were published in the Congressional Review. He wrote several books over the years, including Reaching for the Moon in 1959.

Mark was chairperson of the Central Conference of American Rabbis (CCAR) Commission on Justice and Peace from 1946 to 1948. He was also an executive board member of the CCAR, a governing board member of the World Union for Progressive Judaism, president of the Synagogue Council of America from 1961 to 1963, executive committee member of the United States Commission for UNESCO, a contributing editor to the Nashville Jewish newspaper The Observer, a life trustee of the Federation of Jewish Philanthropies, one of three convenors of the 1963 National Conference on Religion and Race in Chicago, and a director of the 1964-1965 New York World's Fair. He received honorary degrees from Cumberland University in 1936, HUC in 1949, the University of Tampa in 1955, and Long Island University in 1967.

In 1924, Mark married Margaret Corinne Baer (1904-1990) of Mishawaka, Indiana. They had two children, Dr. James Berthold David Mark of Palo Alto, California and Peggy Joy Heller of Madison, New Jersey.

Mark died in New York on September 8, 1977. He was buried in Salem Fields Cemetery.

Scope and Content The Julius Mark Papers contains material from over 60 years of his life and rabbinical career, from his first sermons as a student rabbi to a recording of his funeral service. Most of the collection consists of his sermons and addresses as well as correspondence he received regarding important life events. The collection also includes papers from when he was chairperson of the CCAR Commission on Justice and Peace; certificates; photographs; audio recordings of events he was involved in; scrapbooks; print blocks; and other papers. The collection also contains some papers from his wife Margaret as well as sermons guest speakers gave at Temple Emanu-El.

Arrangement This collection is arranged in five (5) series:

Series A. Sermons and Addresses
Series B. Correspondence
Series C. Central Conference of American Rabbis (CCAR) Commission on Justice and Peace
Series D. General Papers
Series E. Audio-Visual Material
Series F. Oversized Material

Terms of Access The collection is open for use; no restrictions apply
